Woman's Influence in making the most of the Family Income

The husband and wife who look upon marriage as a partnership and make a just disposition of the joint income, are making progress toward independence.

If the division is just, the wife often saves enough to insure the future, and tide over periods of misfortune or accident.

This Institution especially encourages Women's Accounts and invites every wife, mother and daughter to come in and learn about our special facilities for women depositors.

Cashier Duncan Asked To Back Skin Game

New Industry Proposed that Promises to Yield Fortune in Fine Pelts

Application is said to have been made to the bank for a loan of considerable magnitude, with which to finance a new enterprise in the Union district, and Cashier J. F. Duncan now has the matter under consideration but has not yet decided whether or not to personally take some of the stock in the proposed corporation and a place in the directorate. The plan is an alluring one, as set forth by the promoter, and promises great results, particularly in the line of rapid increase. Following is the text of the prospectus submitted to the bank and upon which the application for a loan is based:

Prospectus for a Cat Ranch

$10,000 a day to investors

The object of the company is to operate a large cat ranch near Union, a Campbell suburb, where land can be purchased cheap for this purpose.

To start with we will collect about, say, 100,000 cats. Each cat will average twelve kittens a year. The skins will run from 10c each for the white ones to 75c for the pure black. This will give us 1,200,000 skins a year to sell at an average of 30c apiece, making our revenue about $10,000 a day gross.

A man can skin fifty cats per day for $2.00. It will take 100 men to operate the ranch, and therefore the net profit will thus be $9,800 per day.

We will feed the cats on rats and will start a rat ranch next door. The rats multiply four times as fast as the cats. If we start with 1,000,000 rats we will have, therefore, four rats per day for each cat, which is plenty.

Now, then, we will feed the rats on the carcasses of the cats from which the skins have been taken, giving each rat ¼ of a cat.

It will thus be seen that the business will be self-supporting and automatic all the way through. The cats will eat the rats and the rats will eat the cats and we will get the skins.

Awaiting your prompt reply and trusting that you will appreciate the opportunity that I give you, and which will get you rich quick, I remain,

(Signed) COL. M. SELLERS.

Helyer---Morton

A wedding, which was somewhat of a surprise to many here, altho some of his friends had known it was to take place in the near future, was that of Gladys Lillian Helyer and Herold Wallace Morton, which took place Thanksgiving day.

The ceremony which was performed by Rev. G. E. Atkinson of Campbell, took place at noon at the home of the bride's parents in Oakland, in the presence of relatives only. The bride was very becomingly gowned in white silk net and taffeta.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony and in the evening a large reception, with dancing was held.

The young people were recipients of many beautiful gifts. They arrived in Campbell Saturday where they will reside, Mr. Morton being interested with his father in the lumber business.

Herold has many friends here, who extend a most hearty welcome to his bride and wish them both every happiness.

Fire Boys Busy

Sunday noon, Joe Williams living on Santa Clara Road near Hamilton ave., discovered that his house was afire and raised the alarm. With the assistance of passers-by the flames were held somewhat in check, while a telephone call was sent in to Campbell.

Dr. Merrill attached the chemical to his auto and with what of the fire company were on the streets at the time, hurried to the scene.

The roof and upper part of the kitchen were demolished and the fire was eating its way into the main structure. The boys soon had a hole in the roof and succeeded in smothering the flames and putting out the fire. Their arrival was very timely for altho those first on hand had done well, the water supply was about exhausted and the whole house would undoubtedly have been destroyed.

The fire men are to be commended for their speed in responding to the call and their effective work. Altho our company are only volunteers, they can be depended upon to do everything in their power to render assistance whenever and wherever they can.

Miss A. J. Lauck has been visiting her friend, Mrs. Chapin. Miss Lauck was a Methodist missionary in India at the

GET FRESH WATER FROM SEA

Quite often one hears a foolish person compared to Larabee's calf, which it is said swam the river to get a drink. It is not always so, however, for there is a land where people dive deep in the ocean to get water. Sounds funny, doesn't it?

In the Persian gulf, about twenty miles from the Arabian coast, is a group of islands, the largest of which is called Bahrein. This island, which is 20 miles in length and 10 in width, is low and sandy in most places, but here and there an oasis rich in date palms dots the island with spots of green. "The Mountain of the Mist" in the center rises to the height of 400 feet. The 8,000 people who live in Manamah, its largest town, are mostly Arabs of the fanatical Wahabi sect. Fish and seaweed are their chief food and the only fresh water they have to drink is brought from springs at the bottom of the sea. The natives, with goat-skin bags, dive to the bottom, and holding the opening down upon the bubbling spring, swim to the surface with their bags filled with sweet water. The extensive pearl fisheries for which the islands have always been famous is their one great industry. The Dutch Reformed church has long maintained a mission station upon the island and that has been possible because Bahrein is under British protection.

NOT CONDUCIVE TO OLD AGE

Youngster of 80 Is Told by Man of 92 He Will Never Be Old Man on Account of Habits.

The late John Bigelow, the patriarch of diplomats and authors, and the no less eminent physician and author, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, were together several years ago at West Point. Doctor Bigelow was then ninety-two and Doctor Mitchell eighty.

The conversation turned to the subject of age. "I attribute my many years," said Doctor Bigelow, "to the fact that I have been most abstemious. I have eaten sparingly and have not used tobacco and have taken little exercise."

"It is just the reverse in my case," explained Doctor Mitchell. "I have eaten just as much as I wished, if I could get it; I have always used tobacco, immoderately at times, and I have always taken a great deal of exercise."

With that, Ninety-two Years shook his head at Eighty Years and said: "Well, you will never live to be an old man!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Afire in the Sky!

With flames shooting up to a height of 50 feet, a Paris aeroplane on patrol duty dived to earth just at nightfall recently.

The passenger threw himself from the machine, falling ten feet on to the roof of a house. The pilot, Benoit, came down with the machine, but was burned to death before he could be rescued. Thousands of people witnessed the accident, which occurred over the densely-populated quarter of Vaugirard. The machine took fire at a height of 750 feet. It was then a mile from the Issy aerodrome. With remarkable coolness Benoit attempted to volplane into the Issy ground, but was not high enough.

He managed, however, to swing the blazing machine down to the waste land close by, the aeroplane narrowly missing the roofs of the houses and signal posts on the railroad as it dived earthwards amidst the cries of the horrified onlookers.

Common Kind of Desert.

A fond mother was assisting her little boy the other evening in the mastery of his geography lesson, and coming to the description of a desert, which formed part of the lesson to be memorized, she quoted the words of the textbook to the effect that it was "a barren tract."

The little fellow repeated the phrase after her, but his air of mystification showed that he hadn't the slightest idea of the meaning conveyed by the group of words, and the better to reach his understanding, she endeavored to simplify the description by defining it as "a place where nothing would grow."

The boy's face brightened with the light of awakened intelligence, and the mother, proud and expectant, put the question:

"Now, Johnny, what is a desert?"

Prompt came the response:

"Pa's bald head."

Culinary Mechanics.

"What air them kitchenettes I hear tell of in the cities?" asked Deacon Hyperbole Medders, the somewhat honest agriculturist.

"They're the places, Uncle Hy," explained Upson Downs, his city nephew, "in which are molded or cast or somehow produced a flat dweller's daily round of mealettes."—Judge.

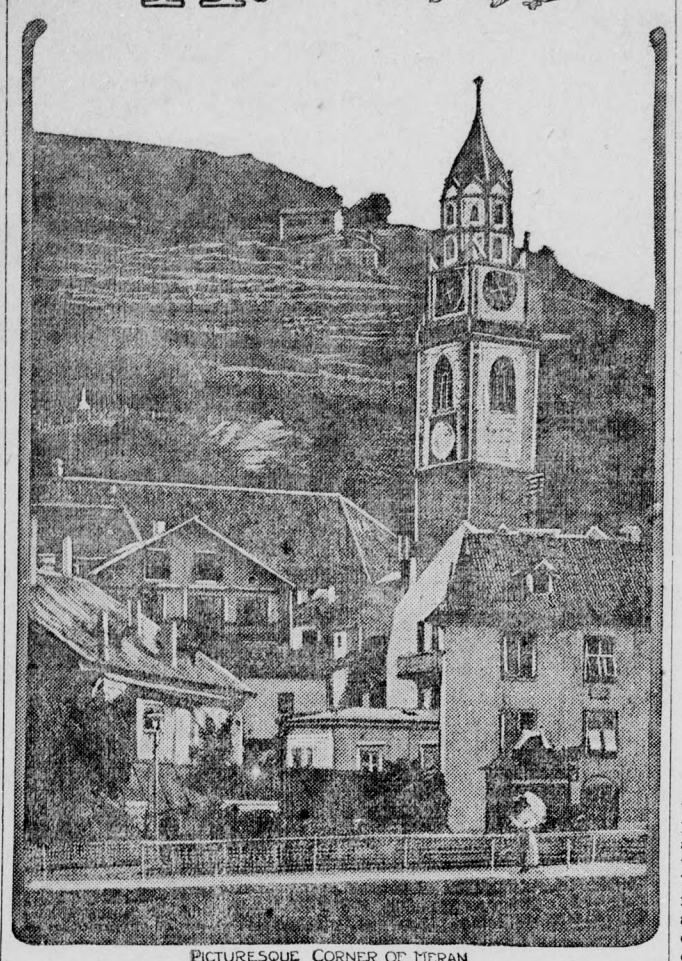
Not Safe.

"Safe burglars do not boast about their work."

"Why should they?"

"Yet they are always blowing about their business."

MERAN AND AQUILEIA



PICTURESQUE CORNER OF MERAN

AMONG the many famous health and pleasure resorts smothered by the European war, one of the most attractive is Meran. A favored garden spot of earth, an ancient Roman outpost where legionaries stood guard against northern barbarians and where Caesars sought to regain their dissipated health, Meran has maintained through all its checkered history a high reputation as a pleasure and health garden, and as a resort for rank and fashion, says the bulletin of the National Geographic society. This picturesque Tyrolese city, banked around by lesser Alps, has been a favorite wintering place for wealthy Americans, a number of whom have purchased villas here and some of whom have become permanent residents. Considerably more than 10,000 guests sought Meran each year, many, nominally, for their health, but most for the beauties of climate and surroundings and for the light gayeties of the fall and winter season.

The counts of Tyrol, the noble family from which the region took its name, long made Meran their residence. The much decayed castle of Tyrol, the original seat of the family, overlooks the town, and the mountain shelves and cliffs through the neighborhood are crowned with many other ancient castles and fine chateaux.

Meran is the first town of the upper Adige valley. It is 42 miles southsouthwest of Innsbruck and 20 miles northwest of Bozen on the Brenner line. The rugged Kuechelberg lies behind it and all the hills beside are covered with miles of arcaded vineyards. Delicious grapes and wine are the town's most famed products. A grape cure is one of the attractions of the place, while the climate draws many suffering from lung troubles. Normally, Meran's season begins in early fall and lasts through to the end of spring.

Italians Love Aquileia.

Aquileia, one of the first towns captured by the Italians in their storm across the Austrian borders at the head of the Adriatic, stands foremost among the Austrian Italian-speaking possessions in the sentimental attachment of the patriotic sons of Italy. Situated six miles back from the Adriatic sea, at the edge of the lagoons, in the Austrian province of Goerz and Gradisca, it was once a great and flourishing seaport, at one time ranking as the second city of Italy. It was, in those days, one of the mightiest bulwarks of the Roman empire against the pressing hordes of outside barbarians, a city of "proud walls and wide bespoken splendor." As late as the end of the fourth century Ausonius placed it ninth on the list of the great cities of the earth.

Today Aquileia is a mean, poverty-marked, dwindling fishing village, with a few thousand inhabitants. The wonderful structures of its heyday have served for centuries as stone quarries, and nothing now remains of their fabulous splendor. Aquileia, regal city of the empire, and later great seaport and industrial city, has vanished, in all likelihood for good. There remains from its golden days merely a heterogeneous mass of relics, statues, mosaics, columns, friezes from its parks and buildings; lamps from its once famous factories, besides many homely survivals and nicknacks.

Grave of Past Achievement.

Trieste, the great seaport of today, is about twenty-five miles distant to the southwest. All the marks of the prosperity and importance of Aquileia have fled to Trieste, in the east, and to Venice, in the west. The once busy harbor is choked with silt and drifting dunes, while rafts and fishing boats are almost the only craft that now thread the varying channels. The modern village, counting 2,300 people, is unhealthy on account of its rice fields and is neglected and forgotten.

Aquileia is a grave of past achievement and a much-weathered monument of the world of the Roman age. Its museum is rich in trophies of Roman times and its ancient cathedral and the remains of the patriarch's palace are its most eloquent concrete memories. Aquileia, as is much of the northern and western coast of the Adriatic, is a rich field for archeologists and antiquarians.

The city is said to have been colonized by the Romans as a frontier fortress against the Celts in 183 B. C. In 168 A. D. Marcus Aurelius made it one of the strongest fortified positions in the empire. During Hadrian's reign its population reached the 500,000 mark. Attila destroyed the city in 452 A. D., and it never recovered its greatness. Aquileia was great and strong only throughout its Roman history, when, during its prime, it ranked immediately after the Eternal city itself. Its fortunes were those of the Roman world, and modern Italy, looking back over the gulf of centuries, feels itself not only the descendant, but also the heir of Latin Rome.

Britain Needs Timber.

The demand for timber in Great Britain is so great, owing to the war, that the export of this material from Newfoundland, which has been practically abandoned of late years, is now being revived. Until about ten years ago there was a substantial annual export of deal and sawn lumber, but about that time the possibilities of the island for pulp and paper-making were emphasized to such an extent that large enterprises along these lines were established in Newfoundland, with the result that a large quantity of logs that had previously been exported in the form of lumber are now utilized and manufactured into pulp and paper on the spot. Now, however, the war has brought about new conditions, and the increased price for lumber has stimulated a revival of the exporting trade, the various concerns throughout the island, which hitherto have been operating entirely for the local trade, having decided this summer to go into the export business on an extended scale, as the compensation, if the cargoes are got securely across the water, is very large.

No Use for Small Change.

"The United States government could almost do away with coins smaller than a dime so far as the towns of the Northwest are concerned," remarked Col. George W. Drewry of Kentucky at the Raleigh, according to the Washington Post. Colonel Drewry spent several months in Montana and Idaho and has just come East. "The price is 'two bits' for most anything a man wants," continued Colonel Drewry. "If you want a shave it's two bits,' or if you want a refreshing drink of some kind it's the same. The bootblacks will consent to shine your shoes a little cheaper, but they want 15 cents for polishing your 'kicks,' and they appear to think that is too cheap."

FOR PUBLIC FESTIVAL

IMPORTANT TO KNOW AMOUNT OF FOOD TO PROVIDE.

Famous Chef Recommends the Quantities Enumerated Below as Being Amply Sufficient to Supply One Hundred Guests.

When arranging a special dinner or supper, such as church societies often give, it is as important to avoid having a large amount of food and drink left over as it is to provide enough. One thing to be borne in mind is that an item which is part of a full menu will be served in smaller portions than when it is part of a limited number of dishes.

The following are the quantities of materials which a famous chef recommends as sufficient for 100 guests:

Three and one-half pounds of coffee.

Six gallons of cocoa made from three gallons each of milk and water and one pound of cocoa.

Four pounds of loaf sugar.

Five gallons of oysters.

Two hundred and sixty sandwiches, made from 16 loaves of bread and four pounds of butter.

Thirty pounds of ham, to boil and slice.

Ten medium-sized cabbages for cold-slaw.

Twenty pies.

Five loaf cakes and five layer cakes.

Eighteen quarts of ice cream.

Ten four-pound chickens and 30 heads of celery for salad.

Five chickens and five tongues for sandwiches.

Five quarts of dressing for salads.

Round Steak a la Quin.

Cover a slice of round steak (cut about one and a half inches thick) with flour, and, using the edge of a plate or meat pounder, pound as much as possible into the meat. Melt two tablespoonfuls of fat in a baking pan; brown the meat quickly on both sides in this; sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with two cupfuls of water or tomatoes, adding one or two sliced onions. Cover closely and bake in a slow oven for several hours, or until the meat is tender throughout. This is an excellent recipe for use in the fireless cooker. Serve with tomato sauce or alone with the gravy. This may also be cooked very slowly on top of the stove.

Chicken Hollandaise.

Cook three tablespoonfuls butter with one teaspoonful finely chopped onion until yellow. Add two tablespoonfuls flour, and pour in gradually one and one-half cupful chicken stock. Stir until the mixture thickens, then add one-half tablespoonful lemon juice, three-fourths teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful paprika, one-half cupful chopped celery, one and one-half cupfuls cooked chicken (cut in cubes), two tablespoonfuls pimento, cut fine. When boiling, add the beaten yolks of two eggs and cook one minute. Serve on buttered graham toast.

Pickled Onions.

Take small onions, white ones are the best, pure boiling water on them, let stand till cold, then you can peel without hurting your eyes; then make a brine of boiling water and salt so an egg will swim in it; cover your onions and let stand for 24 hours and drain. Take a handful at a time in a cloth, and pat the water out some, put in your jars; pour cold vinegar over and cork tight. I use no spice—they don't need it—and they keep growing harder the longer you keep them.—Exchange.

Pot Roast.

Here is my pot roast: Into a basin put a layer of sliced onions, one of sliced potatoes and a layer of chopped or sliced cold mutton or lamb (end of your last roast). Continue until full. Now add salt and a red pepper. Now cover top with potatoes cut in halves, which will roast a pretty brown. Sometimes I use a pork end roast the same way, only add a little sage to flavor.—Exchange.

Fish Chops.

If canned salmon be used drain juice, remove skin and bones and pick fine. Add teaspoonful lemon juice and dash of paprika. Make white sauce as follows: Two tablespoonfuls butter, one-fourth cupful flour. Add fish and a teaspoonful parsley; when cold shape into chops. Put piece of macaroni into end of chop, to represent chop bone. Fry in deep fat.

Molasses Sauce.

Put over fire to cook one-fourth cupful water and one-fourth cupful molasses. When boiling, stir in one teaspoonful (heaping) flour mixed in one-fourth cupful sugar. Cook two or three minutes, then take from the fire, and add one-half tablespoonful vinegar. Nutmeg to taste and butter or not, as you wish.

Scotch Oat Cake.

Mix oatmeal, ground fine, with a little salt and enough water to make a stiff dough. Roll on a floured board until it is one-eighth of an inch thick and bake in one sheet in a slow oven without browning, until dry and hard. It should be a dull gray in color. When done break into pieces.

To Make Lace Yokes Like New.

Apply a white paste such as is used for cleaning white shoes. Rub the paste on smoothly, let it dry, and then brush it off.

HINTS FOR THE HOME COOK

Advice That Is the Result of Combined Experience of Practical Housekeepers.

Prunes cooked in the oven after soaking over night, seasoned and sweetened to taste, are much richer than if stewed.

Air blowing on bread sponge will keep it from rising and may spoil it entirely.

If eggs are boiled in salted water the shells will peel easily.

A generous pinch of salt added to flour for thickening, before mixing with water, tends to keep it from being lumpy.

When roasting a fowl stuff the breast with pared and cut up sweet potatoes; the flavor is surprising.

When separating whites and yolks of eggs a speck of yolk slips into the white; to remove this easily, dip a clean cloth into warm water, wring dry, touch the speck with the end of this and it will cling to it.

Vegetables to be cooked by boiling should be put into boiling water, as little as possible, and if the water is added let it be boiling hot. Steaming is best for most vegetables.

DRYING WITHOUT USE OF IRON

Curtains May Be Turned Out in First-Class Shape If These Methods Are Employed.

Place two extension brackets on the wall about six feet apart and seven feet from the floor. If wall is plastered, be sure they are in a studding. In the baseboard, directly under each bracket, place a screw hook with the hook turned down. (Those which come with curtain rods are best). Get two narrow slats about six feet long from a carpenter shop. Wash curtains, and while wet run one slat through frill and place on brackets. Run other slat through hem and catch under lower hooks. Put on one pair at a time. Full them on slats slightly and they will dry in beautiful folds. They cannot stretch, and require no ironing, not even the edging. Lower hooks may be adjusted if curtains are not all one length.

Bleaching Linen.

The linens of olden days were handed down from mother to daughter, but such is far from being the case to-day, owing to the difference in bleaching. Where formerly it took months of sunshine and rain to bring about the desired whiteness, now it is done in two or three days by means of strong mineral gases whose fumes bleach, according to their strength, more or less quickly. So it is not a poor idea to buy linen which is not yet bleached white, as a few trips to the laundry will remedy this, and in addition it is cheaper, for the bleaching process is a costly one. Then, too, the use of tablecloths and sheets would be lengthened, appreciably, since over-bleaching rots the fibers. This is why blouses seem to melt away in spots.

Rich Bride Cake.

Take four pounds sifted flour, four pounds of sweet, fresh butter, beaten to a cream, and two pounds of white powdered sugar. Take six eggs for each pound of flour, an ounce of ground mace or nutmeg and a tablespoonful of lemon extract or orange flower water. A very pretty way in which to present pieces of this cake to your guests is to cut out each piece in the shape of a heart, and put on each separate piece the initial, in frosting, of each guest to whom the cake is to be given. Present the cake in either pink gilt-edged, heart-shaped boxes, or, if you cannot go to the expense of having the boxes made, wrap the pieces in frilled tissue paper, tied with dainty pink silk baby ribbon.

Jellied Grapes.

A very delicate dish is made of one-third of a cupful of rice, two cupfuls of grapes, one-half cupful of water and two spoonfuls of sugar. Sprinkle the rice and sugar among the grapes while placing them in a deep dish; pour on the water, cover close and simmer two hours slowly in oven. Serve warm as a sauce, or cold, as a pudding. If served warm, increase slightly the proportion of rice and sugar.

Ham for Breakfast.

Fried ham for breakfast is particularly nice when the slices are cut the night before and are allowed to soak all night in a cupful of water, to which a tablespoonful of sugar has been added. This softens the meat and takes out the oppressive salt taste.

Mother's Gingersnaps.

One cupful shortening, one cupful sugar, one cupful molasses, one heaping tablespoonful ginger, and a heaping teaspoonful of soda dissolved in very little warm water. Flour to roll out, the less the better.

Rice and Cheese.

Instead of the usual macaroni-and-cheese dish, try substituting rice for the macaroni. It will be found a decided and a nice change from the macaroni. Boil the rice and have it quite firm.

Ginger Puffs.

One cupful sugar, cupful molasses, one-half cupful butter, one tablespoonful ginger, one egg, one tablespoonful soda, one cupful water, four cupfuls flour, a little salt. Bake in gem pans

NO MORE 'SOFT SNAPS'

PROMOTER HAS HAD ENOUGH OF PORTO RICO.

"Senor Americano" Wiser and Poorer Than When He Set Out to Teach Guileless Dons the Game of Poker.

"I went down to Porto Rico looking for soft snaps," said the Philadelphian who got back last week steerage passage. "I knew they wanted a boom down there in fruit raising, street railroads, hotels and many other things, and I put $3,000 down in my hind pocket and sailed away. I landed in Ponce in due time, and I hadn't been there 24 hours when I saw that a dozen fortunes were to be made as easy as rolling off a log. By gum, but they tumbled over each other to be the first to grant charters and make leases and take stock in a dozen different enterprises with Senor Americano. I was wondering what big thing to tackle first and trying to figure out why my hustling countrymen had left all these good things unplucked when an old don with dead loads of cash plaintively inquired of me:

"'Perhaps the Senor Americano has him brought to Ponce the poker of game?'

"I promptly replied that he had and asked him what he wanted of it.

"'I would the poker of game learn and become an Americano,' says he.

"That was good enough for me," continued the promoter, "and after giving him to understand that it was a cash game and no squealing, he got up a little party of four at his house, and I sat down to pluck the guileless islands. I thought I might as well scoop in the pesos that way as to hump myself over a belt line around the town, and be enjoying myself at the same time. The 'poker of game' cost those three Porto Americans about $50 apiece that night, and they squared up like senators. We arranged for another game the next night, and I meant to hit 'em hard. I took my wad along, and I calculated to raise 'em out of every pot after the game got interesting. We had played a few games at $5 limit when an old don artlessly inquired:

"'Senor Americano, is there not some poker of game unlimited called?'

"'There is,' says I, and I proceeded to explain that they could bet their all and then borrow from their friends. They tumbled at once, and on the third hand out, when I had three nines, I chipped in an even hundred. The don saw it and raised me $400. With glee in my heart I saw his raise and lifted him a thousand. I thought he would fall dead, but he came back at me until we had $3,000 in the pot, and then I called him and reached for the dough. It wasn't there. He had won it on a full house, and I was skinned clean. I played him my watch and ring against $300, and he raked them in. When I rose up, with my heart as heavy as an old boot full of sand, knowing that I had been roped in and busted, the heartless old don presented me with a $20 bill and smilingly said:

"'Senor Americano, you with joy us fill that down here and you come and teach the poker game so beautifully!'

"Oh, yes!" laughed the promoter. I've been to Porto Rico, and it's a place chock full of soft snaps and good things to be had for the asking, but I don't want any more of 'em. The people are altogether too guileless for me."

Canada Affected by War.

The war was the factor that chiefly affected Canadian prices during 1914. From January until April the general price level was steady, with a slight tendency upward; thereafter there was a decline of two points during June and July, the latter being the lowest month of the year. The war, however, at once caused advances of about seven points, and, though there was a reaction almost immediately and the year ended approximately on the same level as it began, the effect on the average for the twelve months was a rise. Prices of 727 commodities stood at 136.1 for 1914, compared with 135.5 for 1913 and 134.4 for 1912, these numbers being percentages of the average price prevailing during the decade 1899-1890, the period adopted as the basis of comparison. The point reached in September, 141.3, was the highest recorded since 1890.

Mule's Caress Leaves Scar.

While George Holiday, an electrician, was riding home on his motorcycle he slowed down to pass a team of mules that had frightened at the "chunking" of his machine. Just as he rode by one of the mules turned its head, took a step toward him and bit him in the face, so that his lower lip was torn partly from the chin, and three stitches were required to close the wound.—Altoona (Pa.) Dispatch Philadelphia Record.

War Creates Boom in Rags.

A boom in rags is the latest evidence of war-time activity. They are wanted for the textile trade, and, as continental supplies have fallen off, old home stocks are fetching high prices. At Dewsbury and other textile centers the rag sales have been marked by exciting scenes. Prices have advanced by $30 a ton, and by $35 and $40 for the better sorts.

What He Needed.

"You can see that I am in need, madam," said the unlaundered hobo. "Can you give me a little assistance?"

"Certainly," replied the kind lady, as she handed him a cake of soap. "Here is what you need."

LEARN WAY TO MAKE LIVING

Good Advice for All Women Was That Tendered at Woman's Club at Pittsburgh.

A woman of wealth, but who is nevertheless identified with civic work and is a practicing lawyer, lately gave a talk before a Pittsburgh mothers' club. Here is a part of what she said:

There is one question to which every woman ought to be able to answer Yes. It is this: "Can you earn a living if you should need to do?"

If there is one lesson more than another that has been emphasized in recent years it is that the untrained suffer most when a pinch comes. Another lesson that is most sufficiently understood is that there is practically no security in fortune.

Be prepared, is advice for a woman as well as for a nation. Train your daughters, you mothers, to something that will pay a return sufficient at least for a livelihood. It can do no harm, and it may mean just the difference between happiness and misery in later life.

There is nothing more pathetic than the sight of some unfortunate woman, brought up to a competency and utterly unprepared to support herself, who has been suddenly reduced to poverty. We all know some such woman. Pottering along at things that are of no real use, at work given by pitying friends or strangers, more or less dazed by contact with a world that is foreign to her, sinking little by little to meaner surroundings and more desperate makeshifts, she at last disappears, sucked under in the maelstrom she has neither the strength nor the training to resist.

Surely you don't want to run even the faintest chance of becoming such a derelict, you don't want your daughters to run any such risk. So be prepared. Be fit for something, trained to something, ready to take hold if you must. Know at least one thing so well that people will be glad to pay you for doing it. Be able to say Yes if the world should ask you if you can return fair value for a living. It is the surest of human safeguards.

NO GROUND FOR SCANDAL

Though for a Time the Domestic Peace of the Deary Family Was Seriously Threatened.

A young married woman, whose husband was of an exceedingly jealous disposition, decided to have her dining room repapered, and telephoned to the nearest paperhanger to send one of his men with samples to her home that afternoon.

Promptly at four o'clock the man appeared with the usual large sample book, and Mrs. Newlywed ushered him into the dining room, as she thought the paper could best be decided upon when tried against the wall.

"No, I don't like that brown, Mr. Paperhanger. Try the buff," she said. Then, "No, Mr. Paperhanger, the figure is too large in that; let me see that dark blue! Yes, I like that, don't you, Mr. Paperhanger?"

"Yes, madam, that looks very well, but don't call me Mr. Paperhanger, that isn't my name."

"Oh, pardon me, but what is your name?" Mrs. Newlywed asked.

"My name is Love," the paperhanger answered, when Mrs. Newlywed began to laugh.

"Yes, Love," the paperhanger repeated, somewhat nettled by the lady's laughter. Then she straightened her face and was about to speak, when her husband strode into the room, with fire in his eyes.

"Get out of here, you infamous rascal!" he thundered, shaking his fist in the paperhanger's face. "Get out before I throw you out."

"What's the matter with you?" the paperhanger snarled. "What have I done?"

"Done? Ask me what you have done! Here I just come home from a hard day's work and find you making love to my wife, and then you ask me what you have done!"

"Why, man, you're crazy! Why should I make love to your wife when I have one of my own? Your wife asked me what my name was, and I told her. W. E. Love. Now what have you to say?" and the paperhanger straightened up ready for what might happen next, when Mrs. Newlywed said: "Oh, Harry, don't act so! The man is telling the truth and I was laughing when you came in at the idea of having Love and Deary under the same roof."

This time the paperhanger looked mystified, when Mrs. Newlywed explained: "Our name is Deary, Mr. Love; this is my husband, H. O. Deary!"

Needlessly to say Mr. Deary looked very much ashamed of himself, and Mr. Love is now debating whether he shall change his name or not!

The Successful Wife.

It is becoming more or less rare to hear of an ideally happy marriage, and this state of things "gives one furiously to think," as they say in France. It may be due to the fact that, although love is easy to gain, it requires tact and care on a woman's part to retain it.

So many girls think that, directly the wedding ring is actually their own they need no longer trouble themselves to be as charming to their husbands as they were in courting time.

The girl who wants to become a thoroughly happy wife, loving and beloved, must tax her strength and patience to attract and please her husband, regardless of the worries of everyday life, to show a smiling face in trouble, to be a real "pal," and to bear and forbear. These efforts must inevitably be crowned with success, and the effort is well worth while.—Exchange.

Tubular Headlights.

A new electric bulb for headlights is tubular in form, instead of being round, with the result that a much more effective light is produced. When a round bulb is inserted in the base of the headlight, rays from the filament have to pass through two and three thicknesses of the glass, on their way to and from the reflector. The tubular bulb, being but of slightly larger diameter than its base, sends the reflected rays straight ahead without any further interference by the bulging bulb in the center. The tubular bulb has another advantage, which may on occasion prove highly important. It can be withdrawn through the rear of the reflector, making it possible to use front lenses which are screwed on tight, instead of being hinged to the lamp.

HARD WORK BRINGS SUCCESS

Few Achieve Anything Really Worth While Without a Struggle for Its Possession.

Anything you may get without a struggle is worth little.

Keep this in mind when you are engaged in some difficult task and see if it doesn't help you to stick.

Things easy to do are the things sought by the easy-going kind of man who never climbs to any height. Perhaps he puts up a good bluff of doing hard work, but the deception hurts himself the most, and sooner or later he has to pay the piper.

Natural ability helps some folk to gain prominence, but without hard work it will not go far. It is not the pupil who learns his lesson the easiest or in the shortest time who amounts to the most in after life. The quick to learn often have to work the hardest to retain it.

When you think of the different members of your class in school you know now that it is mostly the "grind" who has made the great and real success, not the boy who could recite on a minute's notice and spent the rest of his life in mischief. The real "smart boy" you used to know is generally working under the man who was once known as "dense" or "slow."

TROUBLE FOR LOCAL EDITOR

At a village cricket match the fielding side were for a time a man short. A farm laborer was pressed into service. Just before the team's own man arrived a ball was hit in the substitute's direction. To the surprise of the spectators generally, and himself in particular, he made the catch.

The local paper the following Saturday was anxiously scanned for the record of this feat, and disappointedly found it reported merely "caught sub."

"What's caught 'sub'?" he asked a friend.

"Don't thee know? That means 'twere accidental!" was the reply.

Next morning the editor of the local paper was greatly amused by the following epistle:

"Deer sur—You say in yore paper as how I cort a man out in Saturday's match—accidental—I mite summon you for libel, but I won't, but should you 'appen to git a dump on the nose one day wen we meat you will know Bill Wiggins has done it, and it won't be no 'sub' neither."—London Tit-Bits.

Forgiveness.

A Swedish count has an autograph album in which three statesmen have written a sentence of their respective philosophies. The eighty-year-old French minister, Guizot, wrote: "During my long life I have learned two wise rules; the one is, to forgive much, the other, to forget nothing."

Underneath these words the French statesman Thiers wrote: "I have found that a little forgetting does not detract from the sincerity of the forgiving."

On the same page there was space enough for an autograph of the German chancellor. Bismarck, who said: "During my life I have learnt the need of forgetting much and having much forgiven me."

CAUSE OF HAY FEVER

Pollen of Ragweed Is Blamed by Physicians.

Irritating Principle of Plant Has Long Been Known—Stigma That Rested on the Goldenrod Has Been Removed.

The chief cause of fall hay fever is the pollen of the two varieties of ragweed. The generic name of the two ragweeds is ambrosia. The common or wormweed variety is called "artemisiifolia" on account of its leaves resembling those of the wormwood (artemisia.) It is an annual, with leaves much cut and thin, opposite and alternate, as shown in the illustration. It has spikes of green flowers at the end of the branches. It resembles the common wormwood, which, however, bears small insignificant white flowers.

The great ragweed is called "trifidia" on account of its large three-lobed leaves. It is the tallest member of the group, and frequently grows to a height of 12 feet. It is common in moist soil in the lowlands near the gulf coast.

The irritating principle of both ragweeds is formed in the spikelike flower, being yellowish in color and almost as light as smoke. It is so abundant that during the stage of pollination it will stain one's clothes yellow while passing through such a field. It is so extremely light that it is almost impossible to collect any amount of it without its being blown away.

Laboratory investigators have isolated a large number of plants whose pollen will produce the characteristic reaction of hay fever. The goldenrod, for instance, has been accused of being responsible for 50 per cent of all cases of hay fever. The committee on original research of the American Hay Fever Prevention association has demonstrated the fact, however, that the goldenrod belongs to a group of only 15 per cent of cases that do not owe their origin to the ragweed.

An obvious reason for the goldenrod not being responsible for a large number of cases is that its pollen is not wind-blown, but heavy and tenacious, so that the majority of patients are affected only in the event that the nostrils are placed in close proximity to the flower.

The pollen of the ragweed, however, is easily detached in clouds and is distributed by the wind over a large territory.

The usual attacks of fall hay fever sufferers are coincident with the pollination of the ragweed, while the goldenrod frequently blooms for weeks after the attacks have subsided.

The most active stage of the ragweed is in the month of September and every effort should be made at that time to destroy these noxious weeds.

The object of the American Hay Fever Prevention association is the dissemination of general knowledge of benefit to sufferers from hay fever, the education of the public regarding the weeds that are known to produce this disease, and the use of its influence and co-operation toward the eradication of such weeds.

Malarial fever, in recent years, has been enormously diminished by preventive methods, such as draining swamps; typhoid fever has been decreased through the care taken in the water supply, and the destruction of infected material; tuberculosis and other diseases have found their advocates for preventive methods.

The American Hay Fever Prevention association has instituted, directly and through its affiliated state associations, a campaign of education regarding the hay fever producing weeds, which it is hoped will in a few years destroy the cause of this widespread disease.—W. Scheppegrell, President American Hay Fever Prevention Association.

To Try the Wirt System.

Try this easy way to clear your skin with

Resinol Soap

Bathe your face for several minutes with Resinol Soap and warm water, working the creamy lather into the skin gently with the finger-tips. Then wash off with more Resinol Soap and warm water, finishing with a dash of clear cold water to close the pores.

Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished how quickly the healing, antiseptic Resinol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, removes pimples and blackheads, and leaves the complexion clear, fresh and velvety.

If the skin is in bad condition through neglect or an unwise use of cosmetics, apply a little Resinol Ointment* and let it remain on ten minutes before the final washing with Resinol Soap.

Resinol Soap is not artificially colored, its rich brown being entirely due to the Resinol balsams it contains. Sold by all druggists and dealers in toilet goods. For free sample cake and trial of Resinol Ointment, write Dept. 3-P, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Home and School Club

The regular meeting of the Home and School Club will be held next Tuesday, Dec. 7th, at 3:30 P. M. in Miss Sawyer's room. Business meeting at 3 in Miss Farley's room.

After the business meeting and program, the club will continue the topic which was started last meeting: "Standardization of Campbell School".

Furnishings and Supplies.
(1) Adjustable desks.
(2) Good teacher's desk.
(3) Good book case.
(4) Three chairs at least per room.
(5) Good Juvenile books.
(6) Library in good condition.
(7) Maps, globe, dictionaries.

School Organization.
(1) At least 8 months.
(2) Proper Classification etc.
(3) Definite program—Library Diplomas.
(4) Regular attendance—Good discipline.
(5) Flag outside.
(6) Flag in each room.
(7) Children's civic societies.

The aim of this standardization is to require only those things which are necessary to a good school. All may not be met in one year, but should be as fast as possible for the good of pupils and teachers.

Last month's meeting was a very profitable one in spite of the rainy weather. The club has started to do things. The spring flower bed and vegetable garden were discussed. Mrs. Atkinson volunteered to give two loads of manure for the garden, and Mrs. Purmort thought it could be plowed with Mr. Purmort's team. Mrs. W. I. Merrill was appointed to purchase two garbage cans to be placed on the grounds. The club has also financed the white washing of the boys' toilet for the year, which will be done as often as necessary to keep it in a clean and sanitary condition. Several other important items were discussed. If you are a patron of the school, especially a father, it is your duty to come out and lend your assistance to the club.

The program which was furnished by Mr. Kammerer's room was as follows: recitation—Miriam Taylor, solos—Helen Kalas, story—Vernon Harris, piano solo—Eduyna Page.

THE CALOSOMA BEETLE.

Foe to the Gypsy Moth and Imported to Combat It.

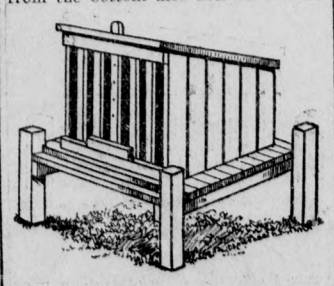
The calosoma beetle, which was introduced into New England in order to combat the gypsy moth, is declared by entomologists in the United States department of agriculture to have firmly established itself in its new environment.

The first of these green beetles was sent from Europe in 1905. Between then and 1910 a little over 4,000 of the insects were shipped to this country. They have multiplied and spread with extraordinary rapidity and are now so abundant that many people in New England are familiar with their appearance and habits.

Investigations show that these insects, both as beetles and as larvae, consume enormous quantities of the gypsy moth larvae. They are able to climb the trees upon which their prey are feeding and are most active during the periods when the gypsy moths are abundant. The calosoma beetle, in fact, seems to be admirably adapted in every way to destroying the gypsy moth. It is not apparently injured by the wilt disease which is so prevalent in its prey, and neither is it apparently affected by the sprays used to control the gypsy moth. At the present time it is regarded as the most important of the natural enemies of this widespread pest.

For Broody Hens.

A popular method of discouraging "sitters" is to place the "broody" in a coop by herself supplied with a slatted bottom. This can be an inexpensive affair and when set above the ground allows no opportunity of building nests or of sitting with any degree of comfort. The circulation of air from the bottom also acts as a deterrent against broodiness. The illustration gives a good idea of what is meant by a slatted bottom coop. To put in operating condition drive four posts into the ground, with each pair connected by cross bearers. To these lath should be nailed from one and one-quarter to one and one-half inch apart. Place coops so the lath will run from left to right, as shown in cut.



To Destroy Weeds In Walks.

There is no need of weeds in walks or paths. Either salt or blue vitriol boiled in water a pound to the gallon and sprayed on boiling hot with a watering can will kill them. About a gallon to the square yard will cure the most stubborn case, and the cure lasts for [illegible]

"The grape industry is not the only thing ruined by prohibition in Kansas. In fact prohibition has killed about every industry in Kansas except the raising of wheat and corn and alfalfa and fruit, and live stock and potatoes and cabbage and garden sass and chickens and ducks and geese and horses and mules and blooded cattle. It burst quite all of our flourishing saloons and beer gardens and paralyzed many of our prominet gamblers. It has absolutely killed the bartenders' union. Where once the thriving saloon sent the clamorous odor of its prosperity out upon the sidewalks and clear across the street, we find nothing but shoe stores, dry goods stores, meat markets, clothing stores, grocery stores and other sordid activities of an unhappy people. Where once you saw long strings of men on Saturday night going joyfully into the rooms where the doors were locked securely, where there was sawdust on the floor and a merry crowd at the mahogany bar treating all around and a man could get his salary check cashed and spend it all right there on his boon companions and go enthusiastically home and break up the the furniture and give his wife a black eye; instead of all these manifestations of a prosperous and thrifty citizenship as in our saloon days, we see men go quietly into butcher shops and grocery stores and then go lugging home great bundles of supplies for their wives and children—beefsteak for supper, Sunday dinner, etc. Ah, what a sad result of the banishment of saloons. Prohibition has left little of Kansas, except her fields, schools and factories, and stores and pens of fat cattle and her sober and happy and prosperous people!"

Last Days of Exposition to End in Blaze of Glory

President Charles C. Moore has emphatically declared that December 4th shall be the last day for the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition. By the middle of February the magnificent Jewel City, which brought all nations to its feet in ecstasy, will be but a happy memory. Hence it is that everyone is doing his best to make the last three weeks memorable ones. The most wonderful programme in the history of the Exposition will take place on its closing days. Every day the crowd is augmented by visitors from East and West alike. The whole world has awakened to the fact of what December 4th means, and the attendance at the Exposition, instead of being on the wane, keeps up to a splendid and unexpected average.

December 4th will be the gala day of the entire ten months of joy supreme. Carnival spirit is to reign. Already reservations are being made at the restaurants, hotels and cafes on the Zone for tables for this last evening, which will rival in pure joyousness the ever-famous San Francisco New Year's Eve. Dancing on the Zone, illuminated aeroplane flights, special fireworks, a carnival parade are a few of the events planned to make it a night of revelry never to be forgotten. Instead of closing at midnight the Exposition gates will keep open until daylight. With the ever-glad spirit of San Francisco to the fore with renewed and increased power for happiness, a time is promised that has never had and will never have its equal in the world of carnival events.

Leland Lancaster is crutching about with a badly poisoned foot. A short time ago his foot was injured in playing basket ball and thought nothing of it until blood-poisoning set in. He will not be able to play with the Normals at Fresno next week.

The Campbell High team defeated the Santa Clara High on the latter's court in a very one-sided game of basket ball Wednesday. The first half ended in a 33 to 8 score, but in the second half our boys took a slump, netting a final score of only 53 to 8. The local team lined up as follows: Bryant and Oliver, forwards; Bydekarken, center; Ludwig and Kennedy, guards; Santa Clara, Bull and Jones, forwards; Pearson, center; Roberts and Gleason, guards. The next league game will be played against San Mateo here Saturday, Dec. 11.

Mr. Atkinson has just received word from his brother in Turkey, under date of nearly two months ago, of a bit of heroic rescue work the Dr. had a part in. Obtaining permission from the Governor, Dr. Atkinson went out to a detention Camp, at Hoolakeugh, where Armenian exiles were being herded, prior to deportation. The Dr. had 3 horses, 3 donkeys and an Araba-wagon. The Camp was full of "prisoners" (!), mostly sick from famine conditions. Naturally all wanted to come, and it was heart-breaking work to select the 30, 8 walked, each animal carried 2 or 3, the wagon the rest. The Dr. says "They're so thankful to be out." Dr. Atkinson has over 70 Armenian exiles now in his hospital. The outcome? Quien Sabe!

Yeomen Elect Officers

Orchard City Homestead No. 5265 Brotherhood of American Yeomen met in regular session last evening completed the organization and elected permanent officers for the ensuing term as follows:

Honorable Foreman	Edward O. Evans
Master of Ceremonies	Albert F. Bulmore
Correspondent	Harry C. Smith
Master of Accounts	Ellis W. Preston
Chaplain	Emma Bulmore

The six other offices to be filled by appointment.

At the conclusion of the meeting a grand march to the banquet hall was led by the officers elect. The tables had been arranged so as to form a mammoth letter Y. After there past, brief addresses were made by each member at the festive board, tables having been set for 50. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, Dec. 15th at which time a full fledged Yeomen degree staff will exemplify the ritualistic work of the Society upon a large class of candidates, the meeting to conclude with a luncheon and social hour.

Last Number Coming

The third and last number of the League entertainments takes place Friday evening, Dec. 10th, 1915.

Homer DeWitt Pugh is an attraction of special merit and will be one of the season's course.

A clear sweet tenor voice of uniform quality is Mr. Pugh's,—better than all, his enunciation is so perfect that every word is followed. He sang with exquisite taste and shading most delicate.—San Jose Mercury.

Mr. Pugh's "Lament" from "Pagliacci" was a great favorite among the heavier numbers, having to respond several times before the audience were content.—Galesburg Register.

He possesses a beautiful, sweet, clear tenor voice that is most unusual. Somehow he takes right hold of the hearts of his hearers, partly because of the personality of the man himself, as well as of the message he sings.—Evansville Review.

Elk Shipped from Buttonwillow

In fulfilling the plan of Henry Miller who made a gift of elk from the Miller & Lux ranch at Buttonwillow to cities in California where parks would be provided, further shipments of the valuable animals are being made this winter. Yesterday two cars passed through Bakersfield over the Southern Pacific, one for Sacramento and one for points between Tulare and Fresno.

At the time of the first shipping, about a year ago, much difficulty was experienced in rounding up the wild elk, an intricate plan of education being adopted before any number could be confined without loss of several through their fearsome attempt to escape from the corral. Much interest was taken in the attempts, sightseers coming from all over the county to view the work. The distribution of the elk is being done in the interest of the state conservation of game bureau.—Bakersfield E[illegible]

Yeomen Ball A Grand Success

The first grand ball given under the auspices of Orchard City Homestead, No. 5265, Brotherhood of American yeomen in I. O. O. F. Hall last Saturday evening was a grand success. The hall was artistically decorated with American flags and the yeomen colors—Mr. Guy Shepherd, an enthusiastic yeomen, being deserving of much credit on account of the tasty way in which the decorations were arranged.

The music, which was par excellent, was furnished by Mr. Herold Morton and Joseph Lipari. The first gentleman's prize in the prize waltz, a membership in the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, donated by Dr. W. I. Merrill and organizer, Carl Anderson, was awarded by the judges to Mr. Lone M. Nobles, the first lady's prize, a large box of chocolates, donated by W. B. Lowry, was awarded to Mamie May Nolan. The second gentleman's prize; a high grade neck-tie, donated by Herold Morton, was awarded to Lloyd Gardner, and the second lady's prize, a handsome box of stationery, donated by H. C. Smith, was awarded to Mrs. Emily Gard.

In the grand march each person present received a souvenir of the occasion. Refreshments were served by Wm. B. Lowry, assisted by Gladys Lowry. All present enjoyed themselves to the limit of their desires and look forward with pleasure to the next Yeomen social doings.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

Next Sunday is the Sunday of the year chosen by all the churches of California as "Boy's Day." Our church will join with the churches of the State in fittingly observing the day. In the morning the Pastor will speak on "The Boy Problem"—but indeed there should be no Boy or Girl "Problem," as in practically all cases the boy or girl is no worse than their home and home influences.

Talk to the Boys and Girls on "Sailing under Sealed Orders," being third in a series of talks on Ships and Sailing.

Sunday-school and Endeavor as usual. Edna Beardsley, leader of the Endeavor.

At the 7:30, evening service we are expecting to have the Boy's Secretary of the San Jose Y. M. C. A., and also Arthur Brainerd—our former Athletic instructor for the Boy's Club—to speak.

We would like All Boys; big boys, little boys, good boys and indifferent boys with hair black, red, or varied, and bald headed boys, are cordially invited to join with us on the California Boy's Day.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.

Homer DeWitt Pugh

Simplicity and mastery, these two words summarize the entire art of Homer DeWitt Pugh. Mr. Pugh is the fortunate possessor of a rarely beautiful sympathetic-lyric tenor voice. It is a voice which is, humanly speaking, perfect in its exquisite liquidity of sustained soft high tones, or equally impressive with the sustained full dramatic high tones, which are electrifying in their appeal. When you listen to it in the production you are impressed with its unusual capacity for a lyric voice, and do not hesitate to judge that there is absolutely nothing too great or too small that the singer is not able to do with his voice.

As some-one has expressed it, "A glorious Tenor whose singing grips the heart-strings, even as his mastery of vocal technique astonishes the hearer." But that is not all, since much else speaks through the personality of this unusually versatile singer whose cheerfulness radiates a warm-hearted friendliness that attracts all alike.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
